

EcoEducate –

Our web-based courses on sustainability

Our courses on environment and sustainability is a perfect tool when implementing an environmental management system, for an ISO 14001 certification or other kinds of environmental certificates.

All our facts and figures are from UN, EU and the Swedish government's offices general information, accessible for anyone. The courses are entirely web-based and frequently updated with videos and other facts, always accessible via the internet.

The Basics courses

EcoEducate Basics General

We show and tell by videos and other facts about environmental issues and sustainability, the issues surrounding us on the planet.

Contents:

- The climate and life on earth
- Production and consumption
- Chemicals and materials
- Human impact
- Tools and goals for the future

Also exercise, course status and a check out (test). Course diploma may be printed after test.

EcoDriving – the theory

Basic facts and videos about economical, and more sustainable driving, and car maintenance. Learn about the tools, the ways of thinking and acting economically regarding the environment and your emissions.

EcoEducate Care

Basics for the healthcare sectors and the special issues they face in these areas. Exercise and test.

The basic courses take about an hour not including exercise and test. License based, 1 year licensing. Content update at least once/year.

The Advanced courses

A sustainable life style. And the path to get there.

Implementing a more sustainable life style – have a look at the last research, facts, figures and policies to help find the path.

With this course we assist you finding the tools and the goals, step by step, to understand and to find the path to a more sustainable living and life style.

The course contains 12 videos about the issues towards a sustainable life style. Evaluation exercises and checklists are motivating you to take a stand.

Course length approx. 1,5 hours. Evaluation and course status is included.

Building a sustainable world

Learn more about the climate and the situation that we are in now, about the planetary sustainable - and unsustainable- actions that are taken by humans. We also cover the issues on the limited amount of drinking water on the planet and matters connected to that.

Finally, the planetary boundaries and our need to adaptation to present situation for our homes and societies as a whole, are covered in the course.

The course consists of videos, facts and exercise and takes about an hour, excluding the exercise and test.

The courses above are updated frequently. Available as one year license.

Web-based training - a sustainable choice